JOHN CARY

the Plymouth Pilgrim

A people which takes no pride in noble achievements of remote ancestors, will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants.—Macaulay.

The Story of the Cary Coat of Arms.

AS TOLD BY THE OLD CHRONICLERS.

"In the beginning of the reign of Henry V. (1413-1422) a certain Knight-errant of Aragon, having passed through divers countries, and performed many feats of Arms, arrived here in England, where he challenged any man of his rank and quality to make a trial of his skill in arms. This challenge was accepted by Sir Robert Cary, between whom a cruel encounter, and a long and doubtful combat was waged in Smithfield, London. But at length this noble Champion vanquished the presumptuous Aragonois, for which King Henry V. restored unto him a good part of his father's lands, which for his loyalty to Richard II. he had been deprived of by Henry IV. and authorized him to bear the Arms of a Knight of Aragon, which the noble posterity continue to wear unto this day; for according to the laws of Heraldry, whoever fairly in the field conquers his adversary may justify the wearing of his Arms."—Burke's Heraldry.

Another account is so quaint that it is placed before the reader:

"In the time of Henry V. cam out of Aragon a lusty gentleman into England, and challenged to do feites of armes, with any English gentleman without exception. This Sir Robert Cary hearing thereof, made suite forthwith to the Prince, that he might answer the challenge, which was granted, and Smithfield was the place appointed for the same, who, at the day and time prefixed, both parties mett and did performe sundrie feates of armes, but in the end this Robert gave the foils and overthrow to the Aragon Knight, disarmed and spoiled him, which his doinge so well pleased the Prince, that he receyved him into great favor, caused him to be restored to the most part of his father's landes, and willed him also for a perpetuall memorie of his victorie, that he should henceforth give the same armes as the Aragon Knight, which is Argent, on bend sable three roses argent, for before they did beare gules, chevron entre, three swans argent."—Herald's Visitation, 1620.

THE ROSES' MESSAGE TO US.

The age of chivalry has passed away ;
We cannot now on tourney-fields display
Our strength and courage ; neither did we flee
From native land to find beyond the sea
Freedom and justice ; these we now possess,
And need not seek them in the wilderness.
Yet even now must we fierce battles fight,
And firmly stand as champions of the right.
Valor is needed if we hope to win
Our victories over greed, and wrong and sin.
The roses white must we preserve from stain,
And other trophies by our valor gain.
Then let each one who bears the Cary name
Remember whence his shield and motto came :
Remember, too, the one who brought them o'er
The ocean's waves to this New England shore.
All that the fathers have by valor gained
Must by the sons be valiantly maintained.
Then take the shield ; go forward to the fight ;
Guard well the roses ; may their silvery light
Shine on brave deeds performed for truth and right.

P R E F A C E .

The plan of this book is very simple, and that is to tell the story of John Cary the Plymouth Pilgrim, and his descendants. This can not be done wisely and disregard the monumental work of the Hon. Samuel Fenton Cary, who published the "Cary Memorials" in 1874. He laid the foundations, and they need not be relaid. All that can be done is to add to the superstructure, making here and there a correction, and adding such new material as further research has developed.

The last word has not yet been said in regard to the early years of John Cary. The time does not yet seem ripe to say more than has already been said; but to put together the best that can be done for the multitude that are coming after. The most recent thing published is Prof. Henry Grosvenor Cary's "The Cary Family in England."

It is rare to find a man who gathered to himself so much of good, and then to send down through family life, cleaner morals, higher ideals, or a more pervasive personality. He was quiet yet firm; true and aggressive, persistent and successful. He was one who could afford "to labor and to wait."

It will be noted that in this book our name is invariably spelled C-a-r-y. It is also well known that some of the branches of the Family prefer and use the longer form, C-a-r-e-y. In some cases this is from choice, and in others it is what has descended to them from the recent past. The writer has no question but that the shorter form is correct. And yet when asked by those who seek to know what they should do under the circumstances, he has no hesitancy in saying this: If you are tied up in business, and entangled by legal forms and documents, such as wills, deeds, patents, etc., keep on as you are; but the younger members of the family, who are not thus hampered, can make the change, and thus bring about uniformity. The only reason why we do not print the name as each line or branch is accustomed to do, is because of the utter confusion that would result, and our proof-reading would be interminable.

At first it was thought possible that the book could be quite largely illustrated, but it was soon discovered that this would make the work altogether too bulky, and also too expensive.

Years of work have been put upon this book, and many hands have been occupied in its production. It is the best that the conditions and surroundings allow. And it is now entrusted to your hands to be studied, to be enlarged and filled out to its proper capacity and its fullest development. Many of its Sections can and should be worked up into biographies, or sketches, and out of this scores of families could enrich their own family life. The author cheerfully resigns the work to the optimism and enthusiasm of the younger Carys.

INTRODUCTION.

This book contains the names of the descendants of John Cary, so far as they have been reported, or discovered in any other way. No claim that it includes them all is made, but a wide search has been instituted and carried on for years, and none are knowingly omitted. If others report themselves, it will be a pleasure to add their names to the already long list.

So far as known this is the only work devoted to this Family that is now in print and brought up to date.

The family is English, and they appear first in the Domesday Book, and are traced back to Adam De Kari, who was Lord of Castle Cary in 1198.

The three principal lines which came to America are descended from John, who came to Plymouth about 1634; James, who came to Charlestown in 1639, and Miles, who came to Virginia in 1640. There are numerous other individuals or families who have come to this land of opportunity at various times, but there seems as yet no complete list of them.

In England the Family is represented in almost all grades of the nobility, all orders in the Church, and among the people. Their tombs are found in St. Paul's, Westminster, and various other Cathedrals and Churches. They attained distinction in Statesmanship, Poetry, Music, and Letters; in the Army and Navy; as Diplomats, Courtiers, and Representatives of the English Crown abroad. William Cary, the great Baptist missionary to India, well represents the family by his work as a Translator; while a Moravian preacher bearing our name was instrumental in the conversion of Captain Webb, an English officer, who planted Methodism in Philadelphia.

This book will be valuable to all Carys, whether their names are included or not; if not here, and they belong to the family, all the original ancestors are easily found, and thus connection can be made with the proper branch. It is equally valuable for all the lines of intermarriage, since in many cases these have been traced to considerable length, in order that the work may be most complete.

A singular fact has recently come to light: Some German-speaking Russians at Mandan, North Dakota, spell their name Kari, and pronounce it Cary.

The quaint statement of Oliver Wendell Holmes, that "A person with a known Grandfather is too distinguished to find it necessary to put on airs," is doubtless somewhat exaggerated; yet it has in it just enough of a great truth to make it stick, and at the same time teach a lesson that the race really needs to know. A careful indoctrination of somewhat of the Chinese respect for their ancestors would go a long way toward making the American people more self-respecting, and in this way lay a foundation for a better citizenship, with higher ideals and a far better outcome.

Occasionally the plain, blunt question comes to us in this form: Are the Carys keeping up their old-time vigor, strength, and mental and moral qualities? This is a serious question, and should not be answered without careful thought, and a wide knowledge of the Family. Having known many, and corresponded with more, the following statement seems wholly warranted as the result of a thoughtful analysis: I can see no special lack in muscular strength, no failing in general vigor, no falling off in mental quality, rather an increase in musical taste, and no decline in the consecration to God and to the uplift of the race. They are as hard-working, with as much inventive genius, literary ability, far seeing, with the other qualities which make up patriotic and useful citizenship, as well as all the home virtues, with as much persistency coupled with quiet, peaceable dispositions, as the Family has ever presented. Let it be distinctly understood, that I can point out the individuals who go to make up this array of strong, sturdy, and desirable characteristics. And this new book will be found full of illustrations of all these qualities.

As we near the completion of this book, we find people still asking about it; and if they belong to the Family, and are their names included? Many such requests have been answered, and their lines definitely connected. But in other cases the queries have come so late, and the time for securing the needed data is so short, that we shall be compelled to disappoint these good people. This we greatly regret. But we have a plan by which such friends, and a great host behind them, can have their data put into form for permanent preservation. The plan is this: Let all such records be properly edited and printed in our Bulletin, which would thus become a permanent organ for the preservation of the records of our Family.

SKETCH OF JOHN CARY.

Chronological.

Samuel F. Cary, in "Cary Memorials," says: "The writer has had access to a manuscript more than one hundred years old, and written by a grandson of John, which says that John Cary, when a youth, was sent by his father to France to perfect his education, and that while absent his father died. On returning to Somersetshire he differed with his brothers about the settlement of his father's estate. He compromised by receiving one hundred pounds as his portion and immediately sailed for America."

Tradition says that he was the first Latin School teacher in the Plymouth Colony, and that he taught Elder Brewster the Hebrew.

He removed to Duxbury where he had ten acres of land allotted to him. At a Court of Assistants, held October 2, 1637, "A proporccon of land is granted to John Carew, about the lands graunted to Robte Mendall, contayning X acres." And at a Court of Assistants, January 7, 1639—"are appoynted to lay forth Robte Mendloues & John Carews land"———.

The history of Duxbury is interesting and is as follows: In 1630 and 1631 there were a few settlers in Duxbury, but they went back to Plymouth in the winter to be nearer public worship, and also because their houses were more comfortable for the cold weather. Some of them signed an agreement to this effect. In 1632, probably, the real settling began, but it was not till June 7, 1637, that the town was incorporated: "It is enacted by the Court that Ducksborrow shall become a township and unite together for their better securitie and to have the p'veldges of a towne, onley their bounds and limmits shall be sett and appoynted by the next Court."

The name probably came from Duxbury Hall, the seat of the Standish Family in England.

So many people had left Plymouth that there was an effort made to unite the two churches, and build a new town, and committees were appointed to consider the matter. Two locations were suggested: Jones River, now Kingston, and Morton's Hole, which was west of Captain's Hill. The Indian name was Mattakeeset.

Marshfield was incorporated March 2, 1640, but the bounds were not fixed till 1642.

At a Court of Assistants, October 7, 1639, "John Carew is allowed to be for himself vpon the continuence of the good report of his carriage & demean'r; & at a Court of Assistants held the fourth of Novemb'r next after, Edmond Weston is lycenced to liue w'th John Carew, and to be p'tner w'th him in workeing and planting vpon the sd John Carews land, vpon their good demean'r together."

In 1640 Marshfield was set off from Duxbury, and as a compensation for this loss of territory, the following plan was made: "The inhabitants of the town of Duxbury are granted a competent portion of lands about Saughtuchquett (Satucket), towards the west, for a plantation for them, and to have it four miles every way from the place where they shall set up their center; provided, it intrench not upon Winnytuckquett, formerly granted to Plymouth. And we have nominated Capt. Miles Standish, Mr. John Alden, George Soule, Constant Southworth, John Rogers, and William Brett, to be foepees in trust for the equal dividing and laying forth the said lands to the inhabitants." It would seem that this plan was never executed, although carried out in a larger way in the Duxbury New Plantation, bought of the Indians in 1649. Those wishing to see the old Indian Deed, will find it in "The Cary Family in America," pages 5, 6.

In June, 1644, John Cary and Elizabeth Godfrey were married; she was the daughter of Francis Godfrey of Duxbury and Bridgewater. John, their first child, was born November 4, 1645, and died in 1721.

It also appears that in 1646, according to the records of Marshfield: "At the Town meeting it was agreed that Edward Winsloe (afterward Governor) should agree with F. Godfrey for making a bridge over South River and what he shall agree the town are ready to affirm."

Francis, his second son, was born January 19, 1647, and died in 1718.

October 23, 1648, he sold to James Lindell all the land, both upland and meadow, granted him by the town, and at the same time "testified and affirmed" that his father-in-law, Francis Godfrey, "did acknowledge and confess that he had sold his present right and interest of his said land lying upon Green Harbor River," to James Lindell.

March 23, 1649, Duxbury New Plantation, which was fourteen miles square, was deeded to trustees for the benefit of the people of Duxbury. John Cary was one of the fifty-six who had shares, but only a few ever settled on them.

Elizabeth was born December 20, 1649.

January 16, 1650, he sold two acres of meadow land to Steven Briant.

John Cary was Clerk of the Plantation, which was a kind of land company, and this year it began to be settled.

Francis Godfrey, of Marshfield, sold to Anthony Eames and his son, Mark Eames, one hundred acres of land and dwelling-house on North River, near Mr. Vassells, "for four-score pounds," December 10, 1650.

March 18, 1652, James was born in Braintree, Massachusetts Bay Colony. It is quite likely that on account of some stress of the times, they were living there.

Mary was born at Duxbury New Plantation, July 8, 1654.

The town records contain the following item: "It was agreed upon by the Towne the twelfe of March, 1656, that there shall be five woulfe traps made."

June 3 (O. S.), 1656, the General Court incorporated Duxbury New Plantation as Bridgewater: "ORDERED, That henceforth Duxborrow New Plantation bee allowed to bee a tounshipec of ytselfe, distinct from Duxborrow, and to bee called by the name of Bridgewater. Provided that all publicke rates bee borne by them with Duxborrow upon equally proportions."

Plymouth Colony Records, volume 3, page 99, for June 3, 1656, have the following entry:

"The Cunstables of the seuerall Townes"

"Bridgewater John Carew."

At this time there were but ten freemen in the town.

Jonathan was born September 24, 1656.

John Cary is mentioned as having "taken the Oath of Fidelitie at Duxborrow, in the yeare 1657." He was elected Town Clerk this year, and this was most likely the oath of office; he occupied this place until his death in 1681.

"Att the Generall Court holden att Plymouth, in New England, the first of March, 1658."

"These may certify all whom it may concerne, that the fourth of March, 1658, that these men whose names are vnderwritten, by the intelligence of an Indian, came to a place a little below Namaskett, where the Indians took vp an English man out of the Riuer of Teta-cutt, with a blew paire of stockings and a gray listed garter, and likewise pte of a locorum paire of briches with wyer bottoms fastened about his waist; but wee found noe blemish about the man that should any way cause his death, but as wee conceiue was drowned accedentally; and finding the man thusse, wee haue buried him, and haue satisfied the Indians for theire paines." Signed by John Carew and eleven others "from Bridgewater."

And superscribed these: "I pray you deliur this to M'r Collyer, or M'r Alden, either of them, to doe with as they shall see meet. And by them sence ordered heer to be recorded as aboue-said."

David was born January 27, 1659.

"It is Ordered and Agreed upon by the Towne, the tenth of July, 1660, freely and willingly to give to Mr. Buckner if he shall come Heyther to supply the place of A minister the sum of twenty pounds and his diet."

Hannah was born April 30, 1661.

"Att the Generall Court holden att Plymouth the fourth day of June, 1661, John Carye is admitted by the Court to haue equall entrest in the graunt made to Arthur Harris, and others, of Bridgewater, for accomodation of lands."

Joseph was born April 18, 1663.

Rev. Mr. Keith, the first pastor at Bridgewater, installed in 1663, was from Aberdeen, Scotland, and preached there fifty-six years. It is said that his sermon was preached on "Sermon Rock."

Rebecca, the tenth child of John and Elizabeth, was born March 30, 1665.

June 7, 1665, more land was granted to John Cary and others.

Francis Godfrey made his will 1666, and the property was inventoried at £117-17-5.

June 5, 1667, "a Jury was named and ordered to bee impaneled to lay out waies requisett to the township of Bridgewater." Among the twelve appointed was John Carrey, and "Captaine Bradford ordered by the Court to impanell this jury."

John Cary was also appointed with Deacon Willis "to take all the charges of the late war (King Philip's) since June last and expenses of the scouts before and since June last."

Sarah was born August 2, 1667.

June 3, 1668, land was laid out to John Cary and others.

June 7, 1668, the Jury appointed to lay out the lands reported to the Court and John Cary signed the document with the eleven others.

John Cary was on "The Grand Enquest," June 3, 1662; June 5, 1672, and June 5, 1678.

John Cary's name appears in "An Exact List of all the Names of the Freemen of the Jurisdiction of New Plymouth, transcribed by Nathaniel Morton, Secretary to the Court for the said Jurisdiction, the 29th of May, Anno Dom. 1670."

John Cary, 2nd, and Abigail Allen, daughter of Samuel Allen, were married December 7, 1670.

Mehitabel, the last child of John and Elizabeth, was born December 24, 1670.

A son (John) was born to John Cary, 2nd, November 6, 1671, and died the 29th of the same month.

John Cary was "Celect Man for Bridgewater" from 1667 to 1679 consecutively.

"It was agreed upon by the towne mett togeyther, the first of November, 1675, that there should be a fortification aboute the meeting house for the safety of the towne."

The Records of the Proprietors of Bridgewater was in John Cary's handwriting, "The First Book of Records was begun 1675 by John Cary, Sen. Clerk, who had 4½ pence for each lot."

"The town being mett together by order from the Governor, and warned thereto by the Constable, the 21st of August 1676, I, John Cary Cleark, being cald upon by the Inhabitants to call for a vote, who should have the money that was made of the Indians that was sold last. And the vote passed that the souldiears that took them should have the money; the contrary vote being cald, I see but three at most who held up their hands to the contrary."

His son Francis married Hannah, daughter of William Brett, in 1676.

"March 16, 1676-7, the Town granted to John Cary, Sen., 10 acres on condition that he would book all the 106 acres then laid out and the three meadow lots to each."

The fourth day of December, 1676, "Agreed with Samuel Tomkins to sweep and look to the meeting house A full year after the date hereof. And he was to have 12 s for his pains or labor."

"The towne made choice of John Ames Seynior and John Cary Junior, for this year, to be helpful to the Constable and the Grand Jury man. About their inspection into such houses that may be thought to harbour Any English or Indians to sell or give Liquor, or sider to make them drunke."

November 1, 1680, Elizabeth Godfrey, for thirty-six years the beloved wife of John Cary, passed from the labor and hardships incident to the life of a Pilgrim of the Plymouth Colony, to the heritage of the just.

In 1680, the Cary family, which had lived in Bridgewater for nearly thirty years, like most families, began to scatter. It is quite probable that Joseph was the first to go, although John and Francis were married and Elizabeth also, before this. Joseph went to Norwich, and not long after removed to Windham, where he well sustained the family reputation.

John and David removed to Bristol, where they were original proprietors, deacons in the Church, and useful citizens in the community.

Most likely James went to Bristol a little later, as he was not married till 1682, when he married Mary Shaw, of Weymouth, and settled in Bristol, where he lived and died.

The History of Plymouth says that, "John Cary was a man of superior education, and had great influence in the Colony and as an officer in the Church."

The following is the record of his death: "John Cary Seniour inhabitant in the town of Bridgewater deceased the last day of october in the year of our lord 1681."

At a Court held March 7, 1682: "Letters of administration is graunted vnto Serjeant John Cary to adminester on the estate of John Cary, Seni'r deceased."

The family of John Cary at his death, October 31, 1681, consisted of the following children and grandchildren:

1. John, thirty-five years old, was called "Serjeant Cary" and had five living children—Seth, John, Nathaniel, Eleazer, James.

2. Francis, two children—Samuel, Ephraim.

3. Elizabeth, married Deacon William Brett.

4. James.

5. Mary.

6. Jonathan.

7. David.

8. Hannah.

9. Joseph.

10. Rebecca.

11. Sarah.

12. Mehitabel.

This makes a family of twelve children and seven grandchildren.

SECTION 1.

John Cary was born near Bristol, Somersetshire, England, about 1610; came to America about 1634, joined the Plymouth Colony, and made his home at Duxbury, where he had a farm. In 1644 he m. Elizabeth, dau. of Francis and Elizabeth Godfrey (who was a carpenter and bridge builder, and in August, 1643, we find his name on the muster-roll of the Duxbury Company commanded by Capt. Myles Standish; he removed to Bridgewater where he d. in 1669; it is thought that the name Godfrey comes from the Duke of Bouillon, the Crusader).

Concerning John Cary, Moses Cary has this: "Mr. Cary was one of the Proprietors (of Bridgewater), and one of the first settlers, and was very useful among them. The town was incorporated in 1656. Mr. Cary was the first Town Clerk and continued in that office a great number of years. At first they settled near together and around where the Town House now stands in West Bridgewater. Mr. Cary's lot was about a $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile east of the Town House and on the farm where Dr. Reed lived; and there he spent the remainder of his days, and brought up a great family of children. He had six sons and six daughters. They all lived to grow up and have families, and all took to good courses so that it was the saying of some "that there were 12 of 'em and never a Judas among them.'"

Judge Mitchell, in his description of Bridgewater, speaking of the first settlers, says: "Mr. Cary was among the most respectable of them, and his family one of the most influential in the town."

His wife d. in 1680, and he d. in 1681.

Children:

- I. John, b. Duxbury, Nov. 4, 1645. Sec. 2.
- II. Francis, b. Duxbury, Jan. 19, 1647-8. Sec. 3.

Note.—Attention is called to the three daughters of John Cary, viz., Mary, Hannah, and Sarah, of whom only the date of birth is given. Moses Cary in his manuscript wrote: "The daughters of John Cary: One married a Howard; one, Dea. William Brett; one, Samuel Allen; one, a Thurston; and two of them Standishes."

SECTION 2.

John Cary, son of John, Sec. 1, b. Duxbury, Nov. 4, 1645; m. Abigail, dau. of Samuel Allen and his second wife, Margaret (French) (Lamb), at Bridgewater, Dec. 7, 1670. In 1680 he removed to Bristol, where he resided till his death in 1721. The deed to his land in Bristol was granted Sept. 14, 1680, and confirmed by the General Court, Sept. 29, 1680. The first meeting of the people and the naming of the town was Sept. 1, 1681, and John Cary and his brother David were present. He became a prominent man in the town, and was elected a Deacon of the church at its organization, and held the office till his death. He was one of the first "raters" of the town, and appointed Nov. 10, 1681; in 1693 was recording officer of the County, and Clerk of the peace; in 1694 was Representative to the General Court. His wife was also of good family; her father, Samuel Allen, came from Bridgewater, Eng., to Braintree in 1630; in 1635 he took the oath of allegiance, and was Town Clerk, Selectman, Surveyor of highways, Constable, and served as Deputy three times. He and his son Samuel, who settled in Bridgewater in 1660, both fought in King Philip's War. For eight generations this family has been identified with the best political and religious life of New England.

About 1754 a body of Connecticut people formed an association, known as the "Susquehanna Purchase," and bought of the Six Nations all the land between the Allegheny and Susquehanna Rivers, and organized the county of Westmoreland, Ct. The first effort at settlement, in 1763, was not successful; the actual settlement was made by forty white persons in 1769. On May 10, 1773, Henry Cary bought of William Stark, Sr., a half right in the Susquehanna Purchase; as shown by deed Mar. 10, 1774, he was resident in Westmoreland, Litchfield County, New England (now Wilkes-Barre, Pa.), as shown by deed made to him by Michael Rood, of the same place. In 1775 he was Chairman of the Committee of Safety of Dutchess County, N. Y. On June 14, 1778, we find him in the county of Luzerne, Pa., as shown by power of attorney given to Henry Stark, his grandson; perhaps about this time he left the Wyoming Valley.

Dutchess County records have it that he preached there shortly before his death, in the old Log Meeting House, near the Camp Meeting woods. The Vital Statistics of Rhode Island state that he died in Vermont. There is considerable uncertainty about some of the facts as here alleged.

SECTION 60-A.

John Cary, son of James, Sec. 25-A, b. Kinderhook, Columbia county, N. Y., Feb. 28, 1755, and bapt. in the old Dutch Church by Pastor Petrus Van Driesen, April 23d following. In April, 1775, at Preston, Ct., he enlisted in Capt. Ebenezer Witter's Co., "For the Relief of Boston in the Lexington Alarm," and served six days. On May 19, 1775, he enlisted in the 4th Co., Capt. Obadiah Johnson, 3d Regiment, Col. Israel Putnam. At Cambridge he was transferred to Col. Benedict Arnold's Expedition to Quebec. They left Cambridge Sept. 13, 1775, marching through Medford, Salem, Ipswich to Newburyport, where they embarked for the Kennebec river. "The troops are now at the mouth of the Kennebec, and thus far the journey of these brave men has not been an arduous one, but now is about to be commenced a march which for courage, clear grit, boldness, bravery, patience, suffering, endurance and fortitude, under the most trying and at times painful circumstances, stands, we believe, without a parallel in the world's history."

"The route of Arnold's detachment lay through an unknown wilderness. The march itself was a Campaign—a Campaign against the forest and the flood, against fatigue, sickness, and famine. The contest proved close and pitiless, and the issue remained long in doubt." Quebec was still 300 miles away; but after incredible hardships, they reach the goal of their hopes, and on the night of Nov. 13th, they crossed the St. Lawrence, and with a handful of starving and half-frozen men, they made an attack on that strongest fortification on the Continent! The great disaster came on the night of Dec. 31st, when their supreme effort was repulsed, and some were killed, others taken prisoners or wounded. The long winter passed slowly, and in early May, 1776, the British army and the new naval reinforcements swept them up the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain.

John Cary reached home in the summer, and buys a farm at Halifax, Vt., adjoining that of his father. Perhaps too enfeebled by the effects of the Campaign of Quebec to keep in the service, he hires a man to go in his place in 1777, and this man was killed at Saratoga. But hearing in his Green Mountain home of the coming of Baum and his Hessians to attack Bennington, he shoulders his musket and trudges over the mountains, only to be just too late for the battle.

Nov. 12, 1780, he marries Mary Rude, at Preston, Ct., Rev. Levi Hart, D. D., a son-in-law of Dr. Bellamy, officiating. From Halifax, Vt., he removed to Salem, N. Y., and bought a farm; then, April 29, 1783, he buys another farm at Belcher, N. Y., where he settles, clearing up his farm and rearing a family. He was a good singer, and a devout man, and four of his children became school teachers.

SECTION 63-A.

John Cary, son of Eleazer, Sec. 29, b. Bond's Bridge, Dutchess Co., N. Y., May 7, 1756. Went with his father to the Wyoming Valley, Pa., in 1769; and in 1772 with the family and made it their permanent home. When 18 years of age, and the settlers being in great need of food, he volunteered and went with a body of men over the mountains on foot in mid-winter to the Delaware River for flour; they had to cross the streams by first breaking the ice, stripping and wading through; the load assigned to the lad was 75 pounds.

He enlisted under Capt. Durkee in the Wyoming Company, and served with distinction through the Revolution. Was with Washington at Valley Forge. Late in 1776 the Wyoming Companies were ordered to join Washington in New Jersey with all expedition, and were with him in all his active operations until the summer of 1778. But the danger at Wyoming was so great that these Companies were ordered to the relief of the people in the Valley, but they were too late to reach the scene of action; but the Officers of the Company secured horses, and by rapid riding all night reached the Valley, and being served a hasty lunch by Mrs. Meyers, went into action, and were all killed before sunset!

By the exigencies of the service the two Wyoming Companies were reduced to one; after reaching the Valley, they remained there till Sullivan's Expedition was ordered to proceed against the Western Indians. They accompanied it, and after its return were ordered to join Washington, and remained with him till the close of the War.

John Cary was called the Samson of his Company, and it was claimed by those who knew him intimately that he resembled Washington. He was nursed through a sickness caused by these hardships by Mrs. Susanna (Mann) Green, and afterwards married her, and she became the mother of all his children; she d. in 1815, and he m. Mrs. Priscilla Chrisman, who d. in 1843, and was buried in the Hanover Burying Ground. He soon took to his bed and d. SECTION 69-A.

Seth Cary, son of Ichabod, Sec. 34, b. Bridgewater, 1747; m. and lived in Putney, Vt.; he was a Bible student, but does not seem to have united with any church; was by trade a Tanner, and he and his wife were buried in the little cemetery adjoining the farm of Mrs. M. M. Bacon. Mr. Edward M. Cary, Red Oak, Ia., gives the following facts: He was in Vermont with his family for a vacation, and as he went into the country store an elderly man said to him, "You are a Cary." When asked how he knew, he said that he had their hair and make-up. He then told a story that his father had told him about a Dea. Cary, of Townsend. The old Deacon had a cart, the wheels of which made a great creaking and frightened horses. A neighbor had a spirited horse that was terrified at the sight of the old cart. One night when this horseman was out, this man and another took the old cart and put it into the driveway; when the man returned the horse would not go in, and he said it must be the cart, which he found to be true. This man further said that a Cary girl married William Bacon, of Putney, and on writing to him a letter was received from his widow, as he had been dead for twenty years; and from the facts she gave him, and what he found in "Cary Memorials," he was enabled to trace his family line.

The descendants of Col. Simeon Cary and his daughter, Martha, are naturally and genealogically descended from the old Puritan stock, in their stanch adherence to the rigid principles of their forefathers. They are almost without exception adherents of the Congregational Church, moral, religious, as well as unusually public spirited, giving liberally of time and money toward the best interests of the community in which they dwell, are filling positions requiring education, unusual executive ability, and good judgment; are shrewd, positive, and aggressive, but tempered with reason and charity, and are exerting influence for good in their day and generation.

Among these descendants of the last three generations we find five clergymen, one colporteur, seven Sunday school superintendents, seven professors and school teachers who make it their occupation, and six others who have taught at some time; two graduates of Normal School, one of West Point, about thirty from High School, one physician, one dentist, one senator, one mayor, two aldermen, eight musicians including choristers, leaders, organists, and trained singers; two postmasters, and other occupations representing tanners, farmers, carpenters, grocers, hardware merchants, watchmakers, shoemakers. These include thirteen shoe manufacturers, a singular fact being that their names are all Keith.

The territory comprising Campello, a part of Brockton, Mass., was included in the original grant set off to the Rev. James Keith, who was the first pastor, and remained 56 years, an ancient proprietor of Bridgewater; and the land upon which it is built all belonged originally to the Keith family, and descendants of the Rev. James Keith. Of the five sons and one daughter of Benjamin Keith and Martha Cary, four located in Campello, and have since been identified with the growth of the town.

SECTION 206-A.

Henry Grosvenor Cary, son of Gen. William, Sec. 102, b. Lempster, N. H., Dec. 4, 1829; d. April 4, 1905; m. Mary Kendrick Bagley (b. Jan. 23, 1833), Aug. 15, 1854, Amesbury, Mass. In early life he developed a fine musical taste, and his father had a pipe organ put into the home; this was supplemented by a piano, which the lad was allowed to pay for. At sixteen he was teaching a District school, and soon after was teaching Singing schools in halls and church vestries, having taken a few piano lessons, which was the only musical instruction received during his minority. He joined the village Brass Band, and played at "Musters" and such like occasions. He was Instructor in music at Cotting Academy, Arlington, and in Harvard, 1879-1883, and was church Organist for more than forty years. His work in teaching music in the Public schools had a wide range: Malden, Medford, Melrose, Reading, Watertown, Brookline, and Milton. Possibly his great work may be said to have begun when he entered the Public schools of Boston, first as Instructor, and in 1884 as Director, continuing until his resignation in 1900.

In the midst of these labors, he was an active member and an official in the Handel and Hayden Society, being a Director six years; the Librarian of the Cecillia Club, and for a number of years an examiner of voices in the Apollo Club. He visited Europe four times; after his death, his two books were issued, "The Cary Family in England," in 1906, and "The Cary Family in America," in 1907. The home of his later years was "Clovelly," facing the ocean at Winthrop, Mass.

Child:

- I. Joseph Clinton, b. 1829, Brockport, N. Y. About 1850 he went to New York City, and exhibited the Rotary Pump in the "Crystal Palace," where it attracted wide attention and interest. With this Pump as a basis he designed a Steam Fire Engine, about 1860, which propelled itself. It proved to be very effective at fires in the city, and helped to save a great amount of property. It was the forerunner of the later Steam Fire Engine, and was probably as effective, but the idea was too novel and strange for adoption at that time, and no great financial success came of it. He entered Wall Street about 1865, and became a factor on the Stock Exchange, of which he was a member till his death in August, 1884. He was instrumental in getting the Cross-Town R. R. through the City. He m. and had

A self-forgetful life; and we Often forgot, like her, to see
Whose hand it was that wrought the deed,
Who spoke the word that met the need,
Who labored on while none gave heed.

But now we see what she saw not,
And know the worth, which she forgot,
Of her own self, as long she stood
In sacrifice for others' good,
A type of Christian womanhood.
